

UNCOMFORTABLE

YET?

Sexual harassment:

If you experience or witness sexual harassment

- Speak to your trade union
- If you witness harassment you are just as entitled to report it as the recipient of the behaviour
- The Equality Act 2010 protects employees from discrimination
- All organisations should have a harassment policy. Ask for a copy of yours
- Where harassment is not challenged, it can escalate and become a greater problem
- Doing nothing is worse for you, your coworkers and your employer in the long run

UNCOMFORTABLE YET?

Four out of five people do not report sexual harassment to their employer

UNISON is the largest trade union in the UK. We are here to support and represent our members in the workplace and we are campaigning to put a stop to sexual harassment for good.
